c. 1920

The Baker Bungalow is a 1 ½-story frame bungalow constructed c. 1920. Facing west onto New Row, the house stands on a high stone foundation at the current northeast corner of New Row and Zig Zag Street. However, at one time the lot lay at the southeast corner of these streets, until Zig Zag Street was realigned to the south sometime in the mid 20th century. The house is five bays wide and six deep, including two in a shed-roofed rear addition. Interior chimneys of locally made glazed brick stand in the north and south gable ends. The principal entrance is in the recessed center bay of the west façade, and is surmounted by a multi-light transom. To the north of the entrance are two 1/1 sash windows on the porch created by the recess. This porch has Tuscan columns and a balustrade of curved sawnwork balusters. The entrance to the porch is from the north end. The two bays to the south of the entrance are grouped towards each other, and are also 1/1 sash. The single hip-roofed central dormer on the west slope of the roof contains a pair of 1/1 sash windows. The south façade of the house contains several irregularly spaced openings in the stone foundation, including doors in the first two bays to the west. In the main block, 1/1 sash windows appear in the east and west bays only. The attic gable is lighted by two round-arched 2/2 sash windows, which flank the chimney. The south wall of the wing contains a 1/1 sash window in the west bay and a window in the east bay which is necessarily smaller due to the slope of the roof. As the land slopes downward from the northeast to the southwest on the parcel, none of the stone foundation is exposed on the north side. The main block of this façade is lit only by two 1/1 sash windows in the attic level. A pair of grouped 6/6 sash windows lights the north wall of the wing. The house was covered in clapboard siding and asphalt shingles in 1980.

The property was owned at the time of the 1980 survey by Gladys A. Baker. In 1984 it was sold to Arthur Thomas Rice and Jean Marie Rice. The property contains 6,550 square feet of land and 1,097 square feet of enclosed space. The lot measures 45' x 106' x 61' x 141', being Parcel 171 on Tax Map 3M.
